

Mass Slaughter for the 'Greater Good'

by Jeremy James

As tension between nations continues to escalate at a very dangerous pace, the economic stability of the world we have known for the past 80 years is set to come apart. For many this will be the first real sign that an unusually wicked consortium of gangsters is in control of international affairs.

For the millions who still see the future trajectory of mankind as a continuous ascent into greater prosperity and technological innovation, albeit with a few setbacks here and there, these events will shake their faith in governments and international institutions. Many will start to see that the 'new age' values and paradigms that seemed to promise so much were really distractions designed to undermine the moral foundation of Western culture.

"Great peace have they which love thy law:
and nothing shall offend them."
(Psalm 119:115)

A nation that bases its legislation on the Ten Commandments will prosper and thrive, but a nation that does what seems right in its own eyes, without any regard to what the LORD has decreed, will flounder. Moral blindness leads to political blindness, the emergence of leaders who have no interest in the security of the state. Nearly all western nations today are led by men and women who have no conscience, no moral compass, a troupe of actors who will gladly do whatever their paymasters direct.

World Wars One and Two were concluded with agreements that would facilitate a gradual build-up to World War Three. The members of this wicked consortium are continually planning ahead, devising new ways to steer mankind according to their will and maximize the advantages that accrue to them from war and violence. This is why the Psalmist, who understood all of this, began his prayer as follows:

“Deliver me, O LORD, from the evil man: preserve me from the violent man; which imagine mischiefs in their heart;
continually are they gathered together for war.”
(Psalm 140:1-2)

These are the people who talk “peace” perpetually, but are continually gathered together for war. Elsewhere the Psalmist says:

“The words of his mouth were smoother than butter, but war was in his heart...” (Psalm 55:21)

They seldom disclose just how much they love war, but we are foolish to imagine that their intentions are noble, despite their butter-smooth words. Sometimes, however, they don't bother to hide it:

“I am for peace: but when I speak, they are for war.”
(Psalm 120:7)

World War I cemetery, Verdun, France

Perpetual war for perpetual peace

One of their own published a best-seller about their philosophy in 2002. Well-connected and moving in the highest circles in Washington D.C., Gore Vidal made a career of exposing the hubris and hypocrisy of the Elite, but never in a way that revealed how they held and exercised power. In Perpetual War for Perpetual Peace he gave a frank description of how successive administrations made use of war to impose American hegemony across the world, always in the name of peace and security. He knew there would never come a time when the US would stop using pre-emptive force to get its own way.

Vidal highlighted the role played by the media in shaping and manipulating public perception, all with a view to convincing the masses that the “greater good” required a “Peace through Strength” approach. But this will never succeed, and the Word of God tells us why:

“There is no peace, saith the LORD, unto the wicked.”
(Isaiah 48:22)

Real people, our blood relations, were sacrificed

Despite all the lies they have been told over the past century or more, the American public has never woken up to the fact that their leaders will ALWAYS pursue war. Woodrow Wilson was re-elected U.S. President in 1916 largely on the promise that he would not involve his country in the War in Europe. But the following year he sent a large contingent of troops to Europe. By the end of the war, 116,000 Americans had been killed. Roosevelt was re-elected to the Presidency in 1940, in part on his promise to keep America out of the War. However, his administration used Pearl Harbor to bring his country into the war. By the end of the war, U.S. troop deaths in the Pacific theatre had risen to 160,000 or thereabouts, with a further 250,000 deaths in Europe. To this we can add 36,000 in the Korean War, 59,000 in Vietnam, and about 7,000 in Iraq and Afghanistan. Total killed: 628,000.

The official number of those who suffered permanent injuries in these wars – 1,130,000 – was equally somber. One wonders whether this includes the tens of thousands of troops who have suffered lifelong mental scarring and stress disorders from their military service.

From the way veterans have been treated over the past thirty years or so – with high levels of homelessness, suicide, and PTSD, plus chronic health conditions caused by an excessive vaccine load – it is clear that the federal government attaches little value to these individuals after their term of service has expired.

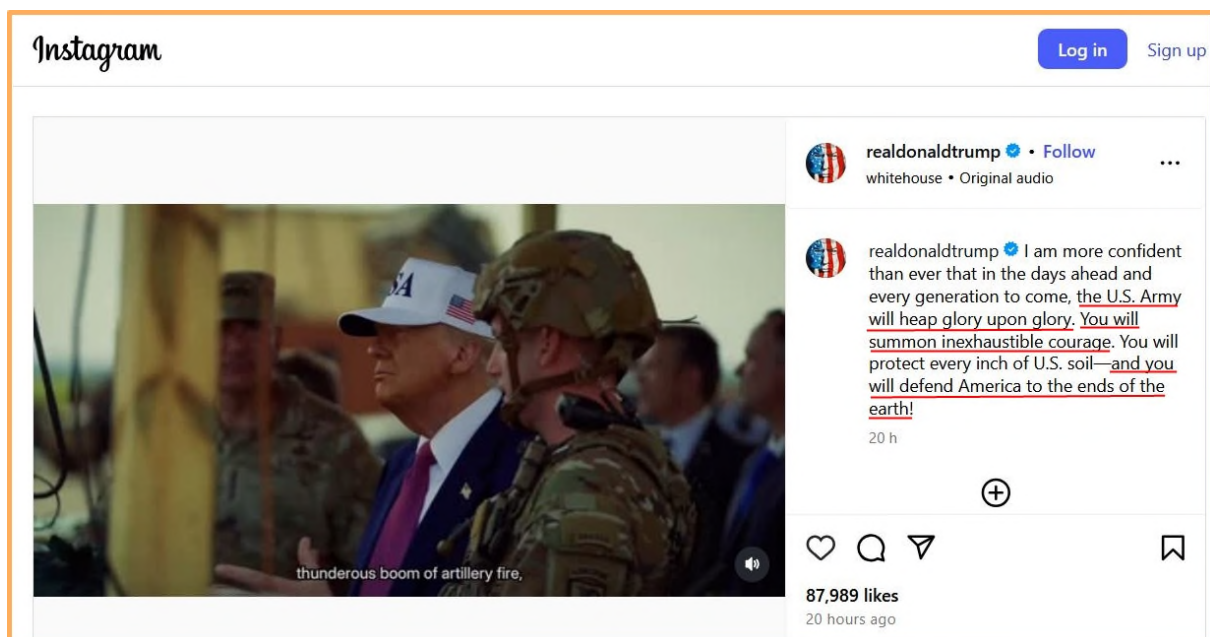

Perhaps the most horrific conflict was the war in Vietnam since it was so badly conducted, served no meaningful strategic purpose, and was prosecuted against the will of a huge proportion of the American public. Tens of thousands of young men were forced to join up and go into battle on the vague pretext that 'Communism' could cause some 'dominoes' to fall in Asia. This is the kind of insanity – or psychopathic leadership – which still prevails today. Nothing has changed.

Just a few years later the U.S. was doing business with Communist China and off-shoring part of its own industrial base to that country to help build its economy! Why, then, were 59,000 Americans sent to their deaths in the killing fields of Vietnam? And why were millions of Vietnamese, both soldiers and civilians, subjected to this horror when Washington was already preparing to establish commercial ties with the Chinese Communist Party?

The coming war has been planned for a very long time

What the military-industry complex wants, it gets. And today it wants another war, a mega-war that will usher in a new world order. Secretary of Defense, Pete Hegseth, made this very clear in his address to the heads of NATO in Brussels on 12 February. The federal government wants Europe to take over the U.S. role in its proxy war with Russia in the Ukraine, while the U.S. itself prepares for a war with China. Our paper #422 examined his address and showed that this is where NATO is heading. They aren't even bothering to disguise their eagerness to set this huge conflagration in motion.

At what stage will Christians in America realize that their President is a warmonger of the highest order, that he is setting in train a process that will lead directly to the mandatory conscription of tens of thousands of young Americans to feed the grisly killing machine that he and his colleagues are preparing?

Every time he says the word “peace”, every Christian in America should know that he means war: “The words of his mouth were smoother than butter, but war was in his heart...” (Psalm 55:21)

If anyone has doubts about this, they should consider the video that he recently released on social media [See Instagram screen-shot above]. It is barely 1½ minutes long but it gets across a powerful message to anyone who is foolish enough to believe it. For those who don’t believe what he is saying, who understand the real purpose behind it, the intended ‘message’ is unsettling, to say the least.

Here is the text (We give some screenshots on pages 7-8). It appears to have been part of an actual address by the President to the troops at Fort Bragg, N Carolina, which is the garrison for the XVIII Airborne Corps:

“The life of a soldier is not just a job, it’s a calling and a sacred tradition passed down from father to son, brother to sister, and one generation to the next. At every hour of danger our noblest citizens have answered that call. Time and again, our enemies have learned that, if you dare to threaten the American people, an American soldier will chase you down, crush you, and cast you into oblivion. The last sound you ever hear will be the chilling howl of Black Hawks, thunderous boom of artillery fire, or the ferocious roar of a U.S. Army infantry brigade. For our adversaries there is no greater fear than the U.S. Army. Now it’s your duty to shield the flame of freedom that was first lit 250 years ago by the heroes of Concord Bridge and Bunker Hill. Standing before you today I am more confident than ever that in the days ahead, and every generation to come, the U.S. Army will heap glory upon glory. You will protect every inch of U.S. soil and you will defend America to the ends of the earth.”

The British have a term for this kind of belligerent, nationalistic rhetoric – jingoism. It describes a speech that is deliberately framed to arouse patriotic fervor in the listener, to convince him that it is his moral and civic duty to fight to the last in defense of his country.

Look at the phraseology. The life of a soldier is a “sacred tradition” (what!?!); our “noblest citizens” will always answer the call to arms; and our enemies know that our soldiers will “chase [them] into oblivion”. Note also the use of juvenile terms such as “the chilling howl of Black Hawks” [a four-blade military helicopter] and the “ferocious roar of a U.S. Army infantry brigade”. The soldiers are told that they are heroes, just like those who fought in the Revolutionary War. They are the backbone of America and it is their duty “to shield the flame of freedom”. The President is confident that they will “defend America to the ends of the earth.”

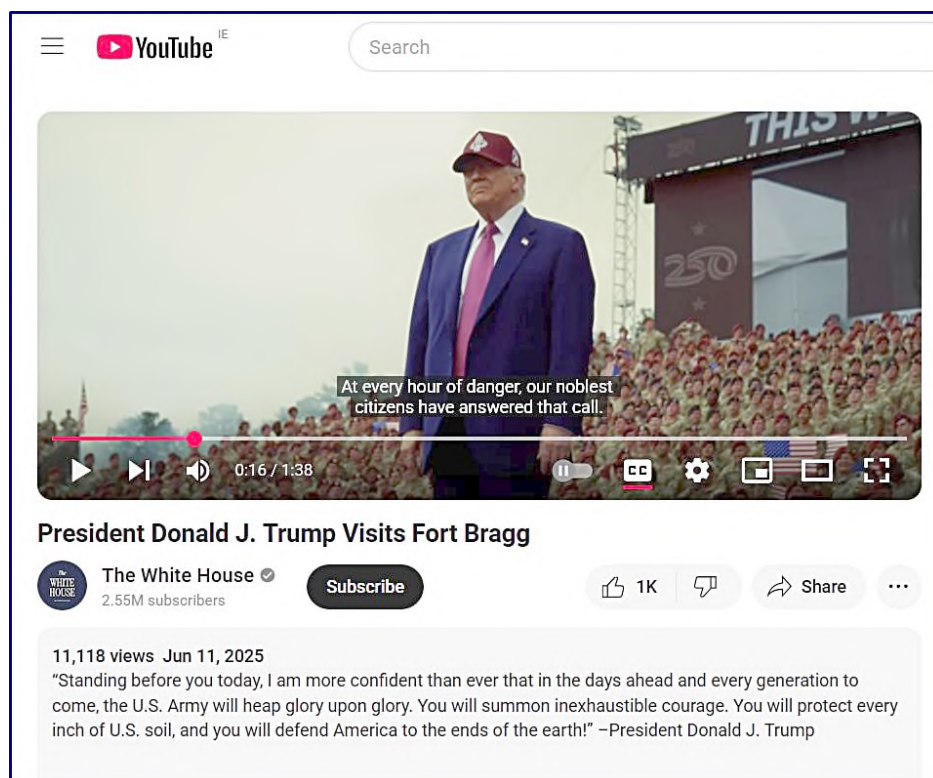

The most jingoistic element of all, in our opinion, is the assertion that “the U.S. Army will heap glory upon glory.”

It is through this shameless warmongering, this jingoistic poppycock, that the Ruling Elite expect to swell the ranks of the U.S. military and ensure that, when the war gets going, no body-bag is left behind.

If they get their way, the new world order will be baptised in the blood of innocent children.

The deliberate glorification of war

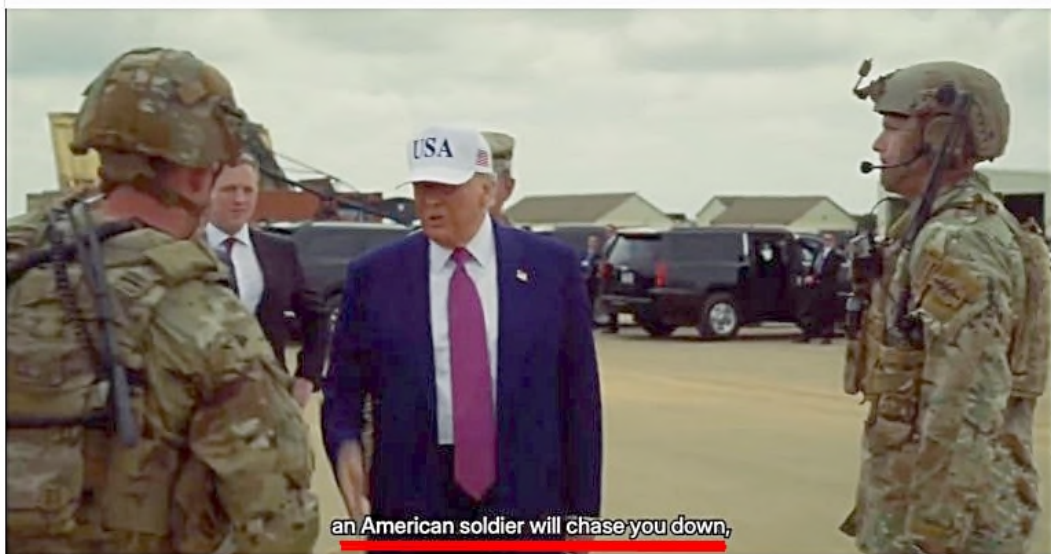

Many of the images included in the video are designed to glorify war, for how else will the U.S. army “heap glory upon glory”? War itself must be made to appear glorious so that its victims, the maimed and shattered bodies, can share in its glory. No doubt a splendid catalogue of medals and awards for valor has already been prepared. Mothers may not recognize what is left of their sons, but they’ll have a classy piece of metal to comfort them.

the U.S. Army will heap glory upon glory.

The terrible twins: warmongering and fearmongering

The drive to expand the military and beat the drums of war is supported by a corresponding drive to increase the level of fear and insecurity across the nation. Warmongering and fearmongering are old buddies.

In this instance the fearmongering is being whipped into a high pitch by Tulsi Gabbard, the Director of National Intelligence.

Tulsi Gabbard, Director of National Intelligence. She held the rank of lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army. See links below to her video [3.31] on the threat of nuclear annihilation which she posted on social media on 10 June 2025:

https://videos.dailymail.co.uk/video/mol/2025/06/10/1173290027787075518/960x540_MP4_1173290027787075518.mp4

<https://x.com/i/status/1932368919039459348>

Her social media post of 10 June was a bizarre description of nuclear annihilation, a prospect so horrifying that she felt compelled to alert the public to the imminent possibility in her dramatic video. Her aim, she claimed, was to get people “to speak up and demand an end to this madness.” The “political elite and warmongers” were “carelessly fomenting tensions between nuclear powers.” This cannot be allowed to continue.

She is oblivious to the irony in what she is saying. The very Administration she is serving is doing exactly what she affects to condemn. The real purpose of the video is to get Americans to accept that a “nuclear holocaust” is a real possibility, a ghastly threat many times greater than the devastation that struck Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

As we have shown in previous papers (such as #423) this so-called threat is a deception devised by military strategists to strike fear into the general population and make it far easier for the government to control their behavior. Explosive nuclear devices do not exist. Yes, extremely destructive explosive devices do exist, such as thermobaric bombs, but the all-consuming monster that can annihilate entire nations is a myth. So too is the infamous nuclear fall-out, the massive cloud of deadly radioactive dust that can poison the land for centuries. It's ugly cousin, the "nuclear winter", where this alleged cloud of radioactive dust can block the sun for years and turn the earth into a frozen wasteland, is part of the same myth.

Gabbard describes a ghastly scenario

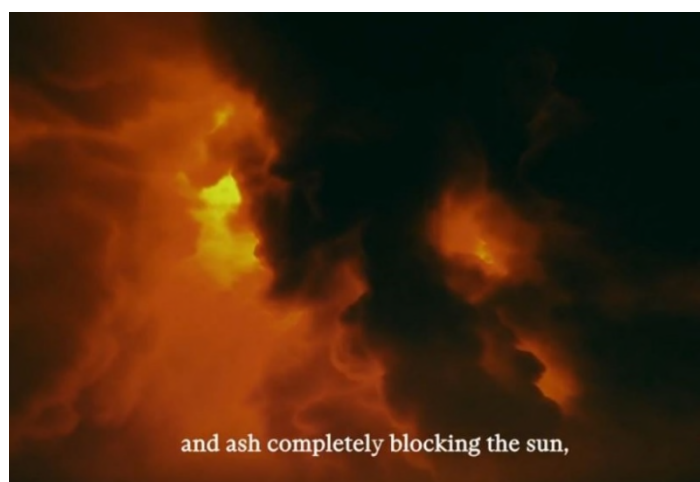

Gabbard hammers home the horror in a dark, doleful tone, sketching out scenes too awful to contemplate. Here are just a few of the images that she uses to instil fear, heighten tension, and urge the public to trust the "good" politicians (like her and her warmonger boss, President Trump):

Nuclear explosion with its 'mushroom' cloud

Nuclear explosion in a large city like New York

Smoke and ash completely blocking the sun

A nuclear winter could follow (causing mass starvation)

Drawing by a Japanese survivor of Hiroshima

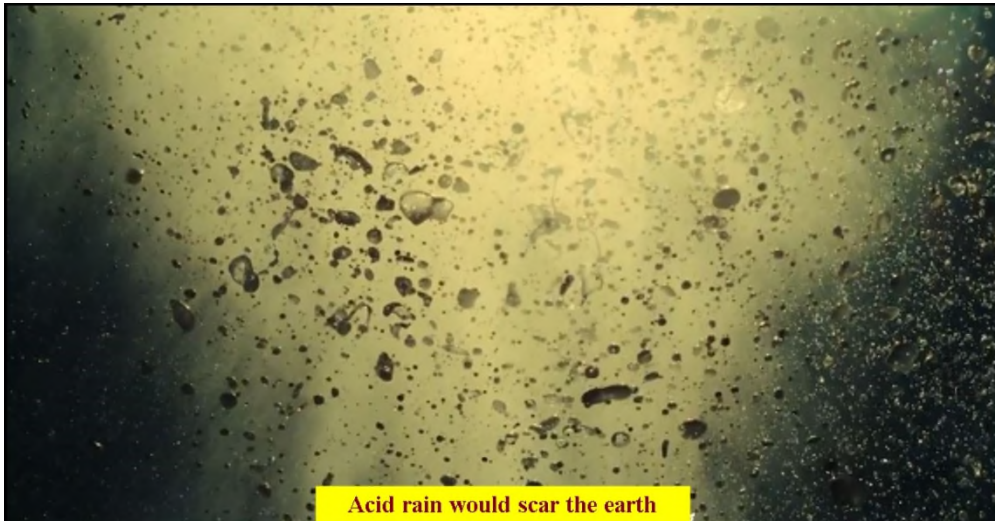

An even more graphic depiction of the burns caused by radiation vaporize everything at its core.

The Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco is destroyed

Acid rain would scar the earth

The radiation and nuclear fallout would produce deadly acid rain

A child cries in agony from the acid rain

If we didn't supply a link to this bizarre video, the reader would have every reason to doubt our account.

Isn't it comforting to know that this is the future that awaits us – according to these deranged people – unless we do exactly what our governments tell us?

CONCLUSION

A great war in the Middle East has just begun. The same Administration that released these two videos fully approves of Israel's invasion of Iran. They want war. They want a massive military conflict that will expand eventually into World War 3. And they want the citizens of America and Europe to offer hundreds of thousands of their children to feed their killing machine.

Will Christians see through the lies or will they continue to believe the official narrative?

May the LORD have mercy on us all.

Jeremy James Ireland
June 15, 2025

To Download and Search ALL Papers on this Website

To download all papers on this website, 426 to date, visit our Dropbox archive at:

<https://www.dropbox.com/sh/v7xpl2l1s9k55h3/AAC4WwyoAdAU8jse-efEMwDna?dl=0>

To search for keywords in any part of our archive (over 8,400 pages) download the free word-search app, Agent Ransack, at:

<https://www.mythicsoft.com/agentransack/download/>

For further information visit www.zephaniah.eu

Copyright Jeremy James 2025