

The Irish Ruling Elite are Christ-hating, Baal-worshipping Deceivers

by Jeremy James

Peter Sutherland, high-profile crony of David Rockefeller

If the plain people of Ireland understood the true nature – the heart, mentality and motivation – of the politicians who rule their country, they would be aghast. Of course, they know that many of them are self-seeking wheeler-dealers who serve only vested interests, who are utterly indifferent to the common good, and who use every opportunity, whether legal or illegal, to feather their nests. The electorate tolerate this state of affairs since it seems to them to be the price that must be paid to assemble a small group of men and women “capable” of leading the country. However, if they believe that this is the complete picture, they are greatly mistaken. A complex drama is transpiring behind the scenes of which they are almost entirely unaware, a drama involving a range of factors, players and goals to which the mainstream media never alludes.

In this paper we will sketch out the main contours of this drama and show how it relates to the great betrayal that is now taking place, where leading Irish politicians are working with their foreign handlers in the New World Order to destroy the sovereignty of our country.

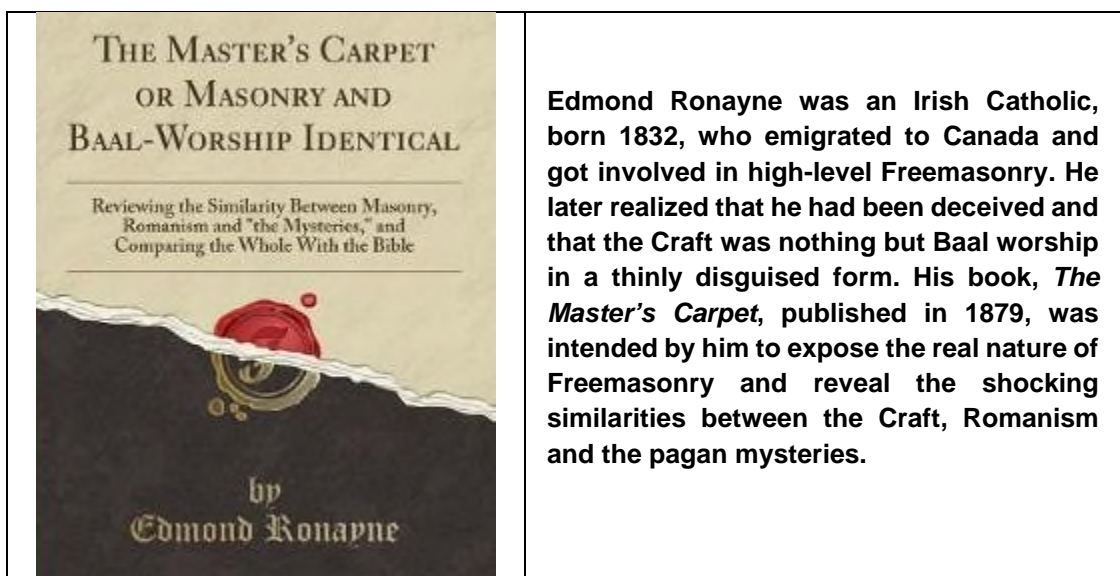

1. The 'We Rule Ireland Party'

Ireland is ruled by one party, the 'We Rule Ireland Party' (WRIP). This party has several branches, notably the Fine Fáil branch, the Fine Gael branch, the Labour branch, and the Sinn Féin branch. A few new twigs have been added in recent years, such as the Social Democrats (founded in 2015), People Before Profit (founded in 2005), and Solidarity (found in 2014).

Virtually all members of the WRIP subscribe to the goals of the New World Order. They are all socialist, which is an epithet most of them would accept. However, many of them, especially at the higher levels, are neo-Marxist, which is something they will never declare.

The party-whip system ensures that all members endorse the same policies and vote accordingly. Anyone who fails to do so is ejected from the party. This means that all key decisions are taken by just a handful of members and everyone else follows suit.

The leaders in turn take their orders from the ultra-rich elite who control Ireland from behind the scenes. Many come from generational Baal-worshipping families who have been working together for decades to consolidate their hold over the machinery of government, as well as the media, at both local and national level.

2. The British Connection

Ireland never gained its independence from Britain. Rather it was the first of the Crown dominions to be ruled under the Milner system. Under this system, key players in the national political hierarchy would continue to take orders from Crown representatives, while members of an old boys network (Masonic-Jesuit) would fill important positions (notably banking, civil service, and government). At the same time a phony posture of ‘independence’ would be projected at all times. Britain continued to siphon off national resources from their former colonies, but did not have to contribute to infrastructure, security or other Exchequer costs. In the case of Ireland, it reaped two important additional benefits: (a) it could take as much cheap Irish labor as it needed and use it to keep down wages and (b) it could import Irish agricultural products in non-processed form. This ensured a plentiful food supply, again at low cost, and enabled British industry to benefit by adding value to Irish farm animal output. As a result the country continued as little more than a vassal state, starved of capital investment, for over 40 years.

The step toward World Government

Ireland was brought into the EU in 1973 as part of the grand plan to create a federal Europe. In order to win popular support for membership, the overall standard of living among the Irish needed to be raised. If the Irish ever realized how far behind they had fallen – as a result of the Milner system – they could prove troublesome. The solution came in the form of EU-transfers. The Irish were satisfied.

Lord Alfred Milner (1854-1925) worked closely with Cecil Rhodes to develop an invisible system of world governance. The famous ‘Milner’s Kindergarten’ consisted of carefully selected recruits who met secretly to agree the mechanisms by which control would be securely exercised. Seemingly independent democracies would continue to be ruled from London, with a view to creating over time a League of Nations, the U.N., and then a One World Government.

The grand plan to create a federal Europe was itself part of an even bigger plan to create a World Government. This is where Ireland got ‘lucky’. After incurring further economic sabotage under Fianna Fail (1977-81) and Fine Gael (1982-87), which brought the economy to the brink of collapse, the ESRI was able to announce in the late 1980s that a great future lay ahead for Ireland and that our economy would blossom in the 1990s. How did they acquire this information?

Well, the answer is simple. The Ruling Elite knew that the plan for a World Government would necessitate the downfall in due course of the U.S. They also knew that large chunks of American industry would be 'off-shored' as part of this weakening process. The Americans would lose, not only the jobs concerned, but the taxes. These taxes could then be funnelled through another channel, at a lower rate. If Ireland were to receive some of these industries, it would benefit twice, once from an influx of high-paying jobs and again from the resulting boost to corporation tax.

The Irish also got 'lucky' with the choice of industries. The New World Order is making extensive use of social engineering to control the masses. Two vital elements in this program are IT and pharmaceuticals. The former is used to program group behavior (the main elements of the Internet and its protocols were already in existence in the 1960s), while the latter is used to influence and impede cognitive performance. It made sense to locate parts of these two industries in Ireland where they would be easy to control and monitor. The downside to this, of course, is that Ireland became heavily dependant on the corporation taxes paid by just a few companies, a dependency which has worsened in recent years. In 2006, the top 10 companies contributed a massive 17% of all corporation tax revenue. By 2017 this had increased to 39%!

No Parliamentary Opposition

There has been no audible Opposition in the Dáil since 1997, when Fianna Fáil came to power. To the extent that the 'Opposition' was ever meaningful, it had now lost its main function. A genuine opposition alerts the public to the defects and shortcomings in proposals brought forward by the government. This was not normally a problem for the Ruling Elite since they always had the necessary majority to get what they wanted. However, the legislative program that the Elite were now planning to implement through this and subsequent Dáils [cycles of government] required that significant defects and shortcomings in their program would not be recorded. The public must not know that they were being duped.

This is why the tamest of tame 'oppositions' has prevailed in the Dáil ever since, despite the passage of the most egregious legislation in our history, rampant corruption and mismanagement in both the public and the private sectors, a banking collapse of horrific proportions, fawning capitulation to the ECB and IMF, grotesque failures in the civil service, and cronyism that would shame the Mafia. The Elite can rely on the WRIP to not do anything that would expose the corrupt heart of Irish governance, the rapacity of its sponsors, or the viciously anti-Christian nature of its agenda.

Peter Sutherland (1946-2018), one of Ireland's principal contributors to the formation of a New World Order. He was a Bilderberger and chairman for many years of David Rockefeller's Trilateral Commission (European Branch). The remarkable list of honors bestowed on him by the international Elite is evidence of his extensive involvement in the One World conspiracy. In addition to 15 honorary doctorates, he received the illustrious 'insider' honors listed below.

Zero opposition facilitates the passage of dangerous legislation

The absence of an opposition has proved essential for the passage of certain types of legislation. One of the earliest, and most financially destructive, was the Central Bank and Financial Services Authority Act 2003. The Dáil debates on this piece of legislation reveal a fawning acquiescence in virtually everything the government wanted, with no serious analysis of the potentially severe implications for the country if the proposed system of self-regulation within the banking sector proved to be inadequate. We don't have space here to discuss this fiasco, but the whole sordid business is covered in detail in a submission made to the Banking Inquiry by Robert Pye, a former employee of the Department of Finance, dated 6 January 2015. Of the two submissions made to the Inquiry by Mr Pye, only one was made available to the public. The first of his submissions, 'The Real Story Behind the Irish Banking Crisis', was withheld by the chairman of the Inquiry. Mr Pye has indicated that no journalist has yet approached him for a copy of this paper (which was cited in his second submission). The media in Ireland plays a vital role in this "see nothing, say nothing" policy, where matters of real public interest are routinely suppressed.

The Real Story behind the Irish Banking Crisis

by Robert Pye

"Were the Irish lied to? Of course – by bankers and by politicians, among others."
(Murphy & Devlin, p.307)

The absence of any genuine opposition in the Dáil should have been glaringly obvious to the majority of the electorate in all legislative “debates” relating to homosexuality and marriage, the killing of unborn children (or as the politicians like to call it, “termination of pregnancy”), the ‘changing’ of biological gender, and (in the Seanad) the Stalinist Prohibition of Conversion Therapies Bill 2018, which (if it is passed in its current form) will make it a criminal offense, punishable by six months in prison, for anyone to counsel (even informally) a person who thinks he (or she) may be homosexual. It should also be obvious – even at this late hour – to anyone who takes the time to consider the contents of the sinister U.N. Compact on Migration, which the Irish ‘government’ ratified on 19 December 2018 without engaging in any public consultation whatever and which the mainstream media has completely ignored.

Ireland is an anti-democratic One Party State

Ireland is, in effect, a one-party state run by a cold-blooded cabal of neo-Marxists disguised as “democrats” who are doing all in their power to destroy our country and get it ready for the New World Order. They want to concentrate all power and wealth in the hands of a small clique of elite families. They want to abolish national sovereignty, the right to life of the unborn, traditional marriage, the nuclear family, biological gender, the primacy of male-female relationships, and the right of any institution, especially those in the field of education, to manage its affairs by reference to Biblical values and norms. They want to introduce what they call objective sex education in schools, so that young children are exposed as early as possible to emotionally damaging material – information on the deviant and depraved activities which the Ruling Elite and their Marxist catamites consider normal.

If this is the Ireland that the Irish electorate want, then they have the right government. However, if it is not, they had better wake up and take stock of the catastrophe that is occurring before their eyes. They need to realize that they have given power to men and women who hate the world bequeathed to us by our grandparents, who despise Christ and the LORD God of the Bible, who serve the international elite and the billionaires who worship Lucifer, and who rule with an arrogance and impunity which, all too often, they don't even bother to conceal.

The average Irish person doesn't know what he's dealing with. It never occurs to him that ultra-rich sociopaths work together to advance their own cause, that they have risen like a toxic bloom to the top of the political hierarchy, and that they are now marching in step with their counterparts in other countries to create a New World Order.

Their god is Baal

They pretend to be godless (when they are not pretending to be Christian), but in reality their god is Baal. Why on earth would any government erect a massive steel needle in the middle of the main thoroughfare of their capital city? Because it is a symbol, in this case a May Pole. In times past such poles were erected on the village green on 1st May in honor of Baal. This practice goes back to ancient times and is condemned over and over again in the Bible.

Raising the Maypole in Germany.

Dancing around the Maypole in England.

An earlier generation of Irish men and Irish women understood this. They knew that certain ancient Irish families continued to worship Baal in secret long after Christianity came to Ireland, that they maintained contact with England and Rome, and that they invited the English to take over our country in 1170. They also knew that official Papal approval for this invasion was given by the English Pope, Adrian IV, in 1155 in his Bull Laudabiliter. Until then Irish Christians had successfully resisted the Rome-based system of central control with its counterfeit version of Christianity. The Black Nobility, who controlled the Papacy, authorized the invasion in order to impose their pagan rites on one of the last remaining Christian outposts in Europe.

The ruling Baal families then used this ‘Catholic’ system to maintain continuous control over the masses, secure in the knowledge that any rebellion could be crushed with English assistance. That system continued without interruption until 1922 when the Irish were given what they thought was ‘independence’. Instead they got the Milner system, the long arm of control which has held the masses in a state of virtual serfdom ever since.

The Irish contribution to Illuminati terminology

The Baal fires continued to be lit on the hills of Ireland on 30th April/1st May until well into the 20th century. Many of my relatives reported seeing them in the 1950s. The month of May, in Irish, is Bealtaine or Baal tine, the Baal fires. The occult ascendancy who run the New World Order still retain some of the old Irish and Scots Gaelic terms in their esoteric vocabulary. These include Samhain (31st October), Imbolg (2nd February), and Lughnasa (1st August).

The annual Beltane Fire Festival procession around Carlton Hill, Edinburgh, 2018.

Imbolg is a returning light festival that celebrates the witch-goddess, Brigid. In other parts of the world it is known as Candlemas. Lughnasa is named after the Celtic sun god, Lúgh (equivalent to Apollo). The Irish had the ancient Tailteann Games to celebrate Lúgh long before the modern revival of the Olympic Games, which celebrate Apollo. The Olympic Flame, which the Illuminati advertise extensively in the media, is a Baal Tine. The lighting of the Olympic torch is intended to represent the revolutionary act of defiance by the god Prometheus who rebelled against a divine decree and brought fire to mankind. This is why Lucifer (another name for Prometheus) means ‘the Light Bearer’.

According to William Wilde (father of Oscar Wilde), “... As at the Midsummer festival so at the May fires [Beltane]...it was no uncommon practice, in Connaught at least, at the Midsummer fire to drive the cattle through the greeshagh, or ashes, as a form of purification and as a preservative against witchcraft, fairies, murrain, blackleg, loss of milk and other misfortunes or diseases.” – Irish Popular Superstitions, 1852

Human Sacrifice

Imbolg, Bealtaine [Beltane in the U.S. or Walpurgis Night in Germany], Lughnasa and Samhain are the four most important dates in the annual occult calendar and always involve human sacrifice (usually unregistered babies a few weeks old who are bred for this purpose, the first child of a novice witch).

This is why the Irish ruling elite were so anxious to legalize abortion. Not only are they sacrificing children on a regular basis, but they are inducing foolish Irish mothers into doing so voluntarily. This is witchcraft (or spellcraft) in the full sense, the subversion of innocent people to the point where they willingly commit evil deeds.

The Dáil debates during the passage of the Abortion Bill [Health (Regulation of Termination of Pregnancy) Bill 2018] in December 2018 abound with comments and observations which reveal the dark, triumphalist mentality of the We Rule Ireland Party. For the first time in history a nation had actually voted to murder a proportion of its own unborn children.

Raising the Maypole, 2003

In esoteric symbolism, the light on the Millennium Spire in Dublin corresponds to the Promethean flame in the Olympic torch.

The same attitude was evident when the Irish were tricked into abolishing the Christian institution of marriage in 2015. Again, for the first time in history a nation had voted to reject the primacy and special standing of the lifelong marital union between a man and a woman. While there is no doubt that a significant proportion of the Irish electorate took pleasure in their brazen act of defiance, a large number of voters gave it their support because they were confused by the lies and disinformation spread by the media on behalf of the government.

A government built on sodomy and goddess-worship is a government forged in hell. It will blight and destroy everything it touches and bring sorrow and pain on the nation that put them in power.

An earlier generation said No!

An earlier generation of Irish men and Irish women knew that this might one day come to pass – though perhaps they never guessed the severity of the collapse. This may be why, on at least two occasions, they destroyed the great Illuminati symbol of Lucifer, the tapering stone monolith known as the obelisk. A huge specimen stood on the banks of the Boyne for many years. At 174ft it was the tallest structure in Ireland when it was erected in 1736 and for many years the tallest obelisk in Europe. Members of the Free State Army blew it to pieces in 1923, so that only a pathetic stump remained.

Boyne Obelisk (before and after)

Another obelisk was blown up by an unknown group on 11 November 1933. Located on Bray Head in County Wicklow, it overlooked the seaside town of Greystones, a bastion of Freemasonry on the east coast. The group who blew it up were familiar with the inner workings of Freemasonry since they had chosen an unusually significant date to carry out their deed – November 11th, 1933.

According to the archives of the Bray Cualann Society the obelisk was erected in 1887 for the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria. After it was blown up in 1933, the Ordnance Survey put a triangulation marker on the same spot. Note the solar motif in honor of Lúgh, the sun god, presumably added in recent times by local Babylonians.

The occult importance of this number sequence has already been demonstrated in our earlier work (#56) [Babylonian London, Nimrod, and the Secret War Against God (2014)]. It represented the number eleven (doubled) and the number thirty-three (eleven trebled), giving the sequence 111133. The group of men who destroyed this monument to darkness were sending a strong message to the Masonic clique who controlled Ireland from behind the scenes.

Men and women with that conviction and level of awareness have almost disappeared from Ireland. The vast majority of the population have completely lost sight of the fact that evil exists in this world, that the fallen angel known as Lucifer is working to enslave mankind, and that a large number of families – sometimes referred to as generational Luciferians – have pledged to assist him. In return they receive a measure of earthly wealth and success. Being part of his secret army, they must take orders from members who are further up the hierarchy. Thus, if the international Elite instruct the government to destroy the sovereignty of Ireland by signing the U.N. Compact on Migration, they will do so.

The Babylonian Hierarchy and their Pyramid of Lies

Once one understands the tyrannical level of control exercised over its members by the ancient Babylonian hierarchy, it is easy to see how seemingly trustworthy individuals can lie to one's face and then proceed shamelessly to abuse the trust placed in them. The Irish saw this when they elected their current government, many of whom pledged to defend the right to life of the unborn. In the space of a year or so the same individuals underwent a mental transformation so extreme that they sought the slaughter of the unborn under the most liberal and inexplicable circumstances.

How was this possible? We need to see that recent Irish governments have been following an agenda that has absolutely nothing to do with the welfare of the Irish people. That agenda, in line with the Milner system, is set by London. The We Rule Ireland Party only serve the ultra-rich elite. The sheep must be fleeced and kept in their pens. A proportion of their children must die – preferably in a bloody manner at the behest of their own mothers. The most vital institution for the survival and welfare of the state – the family – must be torn apart. Marriage between a man and a woman must be placed on the same plane as a compact between two sodomites. The state must have the right to remove children from their mothers without cause (as happens regularly in the secretive ‘child justice’ system). It must also have the right to inject dangerous substances into young girls (using the vial of poison known as the HPV vaccine). Children must be subjected to ‘objective’ sex education to accelerate the pace of moral corruption and promote the perversions that delight Luciferians. They must be made to doubt their gender and encouraged to undergo sex-change surgery – what could be more pleasing to Satan than to convince a little boy that he needs to be castrated in order to find his true self? They must legalize gender fluidity so that a married man, without even consulting his wife, and without receiving counselling or undergoing any medical procedures, can apply to the state to have his biological gender changed retrospectively, with effect from his date of birth! And they must make it next to impossible to stem the tide of sexual perversion – the main branches of the WRIP have endorsed the Sinn Fein Bill (currently before the Seanad) to criminalize anyone who counsels a person who thinks he may be homosexual.

Castration was a punishment in the 16th century. The perverted Irish government has recently elevated it to the level of a human right – aimed specifically at children.

This roll-call of depravity is being foisted on the people of Ireland by the New World Order and their Luciferian acolytes – the Irish political elite. The government of Ireland is a treasonous and perverted cabal which, if allowed to continue on their existing course, will tear the country apart. They are thieves who have taken what our parents and grandparents worked so hard to acquire and are offering it to the masses of Africa and Asia. They are smiling liars who despise Christianity, who loath the Bible, and who take obvious pleasure in plundering our country and destroying its culture, its values, and its social fabric.

The Irish media is a vital catalyst in this monstrous obscenity. The national television station, RTE, is awash with Marxists, homosexuals and covert transgenders (Few seem to realize how many ‘celebrities’ in Irish public life are actually transgender). It has played, and continues to play, a major role in normalizing the government agenda, suppressing debate, and demonising dissent. The national and local newspapers are heavily censored, and any serious discussion of ‘sensitive’ issues (when it does occur) is kept to a minimum and tightly controlled.

Hibernating Hibernia

The ancient Romans called Ireland Hibernia. What an apt name for Ireland today, when almost the entire population is asleep! Normally an animal that hibernates will be awake and active for part of the year, but the indigenous population of Hibernia has been comatose for twenty years or more. Some observers blame the presence of hydrofluorosilicic acid (HFSA) in the public water supply, a potent nerve toxin which has long been known to cause emotional passivity. The Babylonians routinely use drugs and various exotic substances to control and modify human behavior. The Bible refers to the widespread use of sorcery by the agents of Antichrist in the End Time (The original Greek word for ‘sorcery’ in the New Testament is pharmakeia). Given that the public water supply has been contaminated with industrial fluoride since 1960, Ireland is clearly a medicated, and therefore compromised nation.

Unless the Irish awaken from their prolonged hibernation and face down the treasonous cabal in Leinster House, the country their forefathers built at great personal cost will rapidly disintegrate. Their grandchildren – those who survive abortion, castration and gender confusion, poison vaccines, sexualization, sodomy, and teenage depression – will be condemned to subsist in a society scarred by ethnic tensions and cultural divisions. The communities we know today will fragment into enclaves for their own protection, living standards will fall dramatically, crime rates will soar, and the growing numbers of disaffected and disenfranchised will erode any remaining sense of national identity.

Leinster House, seat of the Irish Parliament.

In its courtyard stands one of the biggest obelisks, or shrines to Baal, in Ireland.

The Alternative

This is surely not the country that the people of Ireland want for their grandchildren, but unless they change course radically, and do so now, this outcome is inevitable. They need to elect a huge swathe of Baal-hating independents to the Dáil, Seanad and local councils, men and women with a proven record of selfless service to the community, who express their respect for traditional Biblical values, and who have no hesitation in honoring in any public forum the name of the LORD and His wonderful Son, Christ Jesus of Nazareth.

These are the people who will quickly repeal all legislation permitting the murder of unborn children, gender fluidity, sodomite ‘marriage’, inappropriate and perverted sexual indoctrination in our schools, limitations on free speech and counselling, and restrictions on the promotion of a preferred religious ethos in our educational and healthcare institutions. A tentative list of the actions that a genuine government – a Christian government – would undertake or initiate in its first year is given in Appendix A. We give it merely for the purpose of highlighting, by contrast, just how corrupt and dangerous the unbroken series of WRIP ‘governments’ has proven to be.

Be Careful

We would be naïve to imagine that a program akin to the one sketched out in Appendix A would meet with no resistance. In addition to the many vested interests within the country that would strenuously oppose it, the international Elite would place enormous obstacles in its path. Of the many weapons at their disposal, the three that could be deployed most easily, and in shortest time, are: (a) the portrayal of Ireland in the international media as a politically unstable country, thereby driving up the real cost of servicing the national debt and cutting inward investment; (b) the diversion of jobs, corporation tax and investment by multinational companies to other jurisdictions; and (c) the undercutting of Irish markets abroad with subsidised goods. Given that the New World Order will not tolerate the existence of even one truly sovereign nation, subversive actions of this nature can be expected.

The REAL Problem

The real problem is much deeper than this, however. The people of Ireland made a choice on 22 May 2015 and again on 25 May 2018 when they approved, by an overwhelming majority in each case, the legalization of homosexual ‘marriage’ and the killing of unborn children, respectively. The choice they made went far beyond the questions put to them in the referendums. By vicarious means – a national plebiscite – exactly the same choice was put to them on both occasions that the prophet Elijah put to the people of Israel on Mount Carmel about 2,850 years ago:

“And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, How long halt ye between two opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. And the people answered him not a word.”

- 1 Kings 18:21

Alas, the people of Ireland gave “Baal!” as their answer, and did so on both occasions with great acclamation. They claimed they were exercising their right to choose, which was also a prominent slogan in the lead-up to the referendum on abortion. Abortion is a woman’s choice, they proclaimed. The majority of the electorate chose Baal, the god who thunders against the LORD God of the Bible, the god who demands the blood of innocent children, the god who despises natural marriage and biological gender, the god of sodomy, androgyny and ‘do as you will’.

Having made their choice, and done so with alarming conviction, the people of Ireland are now entirely on their own. Collectively and with one accord they have turned their backs on the LORD God of their fathers and grandfathers. While a small proportion of the population still grieve over this blasphemous and rebellious act, the vast majority appear to be oblivious to the gravity of what they have done. They have forgotten that there is a God in heaven who will one day judge each and every one of us.

CONCLUSION

The judgment, when it comes, will be severe. We are fast approaching a time when we will see grown men cry. Once a people cut all ties with the Rock of their salvation, they are at the mercy of the seas. And Baal will show no mercy. As soon as he has lured his victims far enough from their spiritual foundation, he will lash them with pitiless zeal.

The people of Ireland decided on 22 May 2015 and again on 25 May 2018 that they no longer needed God, that they could manage perfectly well without Him. To the extent that they recognized a supernatural reality, for many it was grounded in the false spirituality of the New Age, the smiling goddess of Gnosticism and Romanism, or the 'impersonal harmony' of the Cosmos. Everyone had his god or idol whose transcendent power would preserve and maintain the world around them.

The men and women of Ireland decided to discard the Word of God by defining their own morality. Even the clergy participated in this insane pagan spectacle, mumbling incoherently from their pulpits as they tried to justify their rejection of God's Word. The Catholic bishops donned their mystical cloak of invisibility, as did the Jesuits. Since the Pope supports the New World Order, U.N. Agenda 2030, and the coming One World Religion, there was never the slightest possibility that the Catholic church in Ireland would oppose abortion or sodomite 'marriage'. Meanwhile the so-called Evangelical church in Ireland took pride in dismissing the Bible and declaring that, since abortion was a human rights issue (in their view), it should be addressed on that basis. Not to be outdone, the Presbyterian church could find nothing sinful in what the government was proposing and instructed their members to vote according to their conscience.

All who should have spoken out sold out!

Now that Baal is the official god of the Irish people and true Christianity no longer exists on this island (other than in isolated pockets where a faithful remnant of God-fearing believers still worship and honor the LORD), the future of our nation has passed entirely into the hands of the New World Order.

So, when disaster strikes and the Irish finally awaken from their extended hibernation, to whom will they call for help? Which of their many gods will come along and pull their benighted nation out of the pit? –

“But where are thy gods that thou hast made thee? let them arise, if they can save thee in the time of thy trouble:”

- Jeremiah 2:28

The LORD cautioned the prophet Jeremiah that His people had gone too far, that they had fallen into such depravity, a condition of such acute disobedience and rebellion, that when they called on Him for mercy, He would not hear them:

“Therefore pray not thou for this people, neither lift up a cry or prayer for them: for I will not hear them in the time that they cry unto me for their trouble.”
- Jeremiah 11:14

This is where Ireland stands today.

The actions of an honest, patriotic,
Christian government
in its first year

They would repeal all legislation permitting

- the killing of unborn children,
- gender fluidity,
- sodomite 'marriage',
- inappropriate and perverted sexual indoctrination in our schools,
- limitations on free speech and counselling,
- restrictions on the promotion of a preferred religious ethos in educational and healthcare institutions.

They would withdraw from the UN Compact on Migration and put a stop to all immigration that did not conform with parameters approved by the people of Ireland, having regard to the social and economic needs of the country.

Given that the Koran explicitly condemns both Christianity and Judaism in patently hostile terms, they would place an embargo on the building of new mosques and the completion of those still under construction pending the outcome of a commissioned study and a national debate on the future of Islam in this country.

They would inaugurate a national debate on the range and nature of the mechanisms that are required to facilitate effective accountability and transparency in the Garda Síochána, the media, Tusla, and the formulation of the educational syllabus at primary and secondary level.

They would remove the redundant levels of management in the Health Sector and replace the entire senior management team at RTE.

They would cancel Ireland's membership of the UN and WHO, as well as organizations and coalitions that are seen to constrain the sovereignty of the state.

They would set up a body to review the structure of our taxation system, and develop proposals to make it more equitable and more conducive to economic growth. The review body would invite submissions from both professional and charitable bodies and the general public.

They would confine the use of the Irish defense forces to operations relating solely to the protection and security of Ireland.

They would enable Irish citizens living abroad ('the Irish diaspora') to elect a number of representatives to both the Dáil and the Seanad.

They would set in train arrangements to attract and repatriate Irish citizens working abroad.

They would initiate a national debate on Ireland's membership of the EU.

They would introduce legislation to outlaw monopolistic control of the media.

They would introduce legislation to bring the natural resources and fisheries of Ireland as far as possible under national ownership.

They would set up a commission to prepare a strategy to substantially increase, over the coming decades, the proportion of Irish industry under Irish ownership. The commission would develop proposals on ways to enable the Irish diaspora to invest in Irish industry, capital formation and national infrastructure.

They would set up a commission to overhaul the Irish agricultural sector, with a view to substantially expanding the volume and variety of output and developing overseas markets.

They would review and where necessary reform all legislation relating to the construction, ownership, purchase, sale and rental of residential property.

They would hold a national referendum to strengthen the constitutional protection of the family, traditional marriage, and biological gender.

They would break up the construction cartel which is overcharging for public works and capital projects.

They would set up a judicial commission to review existing legal mechanisms that would enable the prosecution of persons – politicians, bankers, accountants, public servants – who violated significant positions of trust in the period 1997 to date.

They would approve a detailed review of vaccine safety and safe exposure levels to electromagnetic radiation, both short-term and over one's lifetime.

They would set up a statutory commission with power to censure and penalize media organizations, including individual senior managers, who fail to observe national standards relating to fair and balanced reporting.

They would prohibit the contamination of the public water supply with industrial fluoride.

They would set up an expert group to develop proposals to establish a state bank that would lend to small and medium-sized enterprises at non-predatory, fixed rates of interest.

They would terminate the spraying of chemtrail aerosols in the skies above the sovereign territory of Ireland.

They would initiate and oversee an in-depth public debate on ways to facilitate greater public participation in the ongoing democratic decision-making process at both local and national level.

They would implement measures to maximise the use of social housing and under-utilised housing stock in private ownership, with priority being given to the needs of the homeless and Irish citizens.

They would examine legislative and other means to constrain and regulate corporate influence, whether domestic or foreign, on the economic and financial activity of the state.

They would examine legislative and other means to bring the 'big' banks under a form of national ownership and substantially reformulate their strategic purpose to better serve the national interest.

They would investigate ways of improving access to affordable legal representation for lower income groups in civil cases, lowering the cost of litigation generally, and improving substantially the efficiency of the court system.

They would greatly strengthen the penalties for child sexual abuse, violent sexual crimes, and violence against the elderly, particularly by repeat offenders. Failure to report the sexual abuse of children would become a serious criminal offense.

They would strengthen substantially the penalties for corruption and criminal activity by members of the Garda Síochána (national police force).

They would greatly strengthen the legislative protection of whistleblowers and the channels available for the early and responsible reporting of wrongdoing in the public service and the banking/financial sector.

They would base appointments to state boards and the judiciary on merit and suitability. Under-performers and incumbents deemed to be abusing their position would be called to account.

They would invite proposals from the general public, as well as social support groups, on ways to increase the voluntary personal contribution made by retired persons to the common good, with particular emphasis on ways to utilise their knowledge and expertise in developing skills and vocational competence among disadvantaged youth.

They would initiate a public debate on ways to regulate the influence of smart phones, social media and IT generally on the lives and well-being of our children.

They would set up a scientific advisory group to examine the legitimacy of the claim that significant changes in world climate are occurring and that they are largely attributable to an increase in 'greenhouse' gases.

They would approve the introduction of a civic awareness module at both primary and secondary level that would explain clearly the purpose and provisions of the Constitution (Bunreacht na hEireann), the importance of national sovereignty and traditional Judeo-Christian values, and the dangers posed by aberrant political doctrines.

They would require all politicians, senior public servants, and members of the judiciary to declare their affiliation with any organization that requires a secret oath of brotherhood or obedience.

They would approve the immediate demolition of the Millennium Spire in O'Connell Street, the Wellington Monument in Phoenix Park, and the obelisk on the grounds of Leinster House.

They would invite proposals from the general public and other interested parties on further measures which, in their view, would strengthen this program for government.
